Baking With Dad

Written and illustrated by Aurora Cacciapuoti

Today we're baking with Dad! We have everything we need, including the most important ingredient - Dad himself! But who are we baking for? And who's to do the cleaning up?

Features:

- Studies have shown that it is becoming increasingly rare for fathers to read to their children. The father-daughter relationship at the heart of this book makes it an ideal picture book for fathers to build their confidence with, before moving on to the other titles in the Child's Play Library!
- The book shuns gender stereotypes by depicting baking as a gender-neutral activity.

- 'Baking with Dad' celebrates shared experiences by focusing on the importance of bonding activities between fathers and daughters.
- Hardcover format is beautifully presented in a dust jacket and makes a great gift.

Aurora was born on the wonderful island of Sardinia, and she has lived in many different cities, such as Milan, Bologna and Edinburgh. She currently lives in Cambridge, UK, where she is continuing to do her favorite thing in the world - drawing!

Mayday Mouse

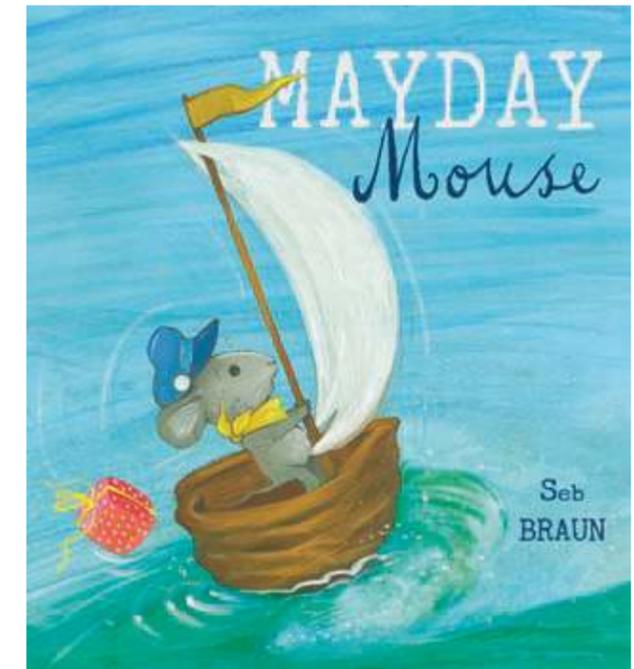

Written and illustrated by Sebastien Braun

When Captain Mouse sets sail on a bright, sunny day with a birthday present for her brother, little does she know the sea-going perils she will have to face!

Her cheerful, optimistic nature refuses to be downcast by storms, caves, rocks and shipwrecks. Resourceful and inventive, she's able to save the day - with just a little help from her friends!

Features:

- Shows that being optimistic can help get you through tough times.
- Hardcover format is beautifully presented in a dust jacket and makes a great gift.

Sebastien was born in France, and studied Fine and Applied Art at Strasbourg University. When he moved to London in 2000 he decided he wanted to illustrate children's books, and since then he's done just that! As well as illustration, he loves to make art out of found objects - like walnut shells.

Ossiri and the Bala Mengro

Written by Richard O'Neill and Katharine Quarmby
Illustrated by Hannah Tolson

A Romani girl creates her own musical instrument from a willow branch and lots of recycled objects. She plays it enthusiastically, but it sounds terrible! Ignoring warnings not to awaken the ogre in the hills, Ossiri goes there to practice playing her instrument. Will she wake the ogre, and will it appreciate her playing?

Told by a Romani storyteller and a picture book author, this original tale offers a fascinating insight into Romani lifestyles and cultures.

Features:

- Introduces children to other cultures and lifestyles.
- Links well to the emphasis on the study of stories and poems from a range of cultures in the Common Core curriculum.
- The Gypsy, Roma and Traveler communities, the largest ethnic minority in Europe, are rarely reflected in the classroom, and almost never in picture books. 'Ossiri and the Bala Mengro' aims to cultivate a better understanding of the values of these communities.
- Hardcover format is beautifully presented in a dust jacket and makes a great gift.

Home and Dry

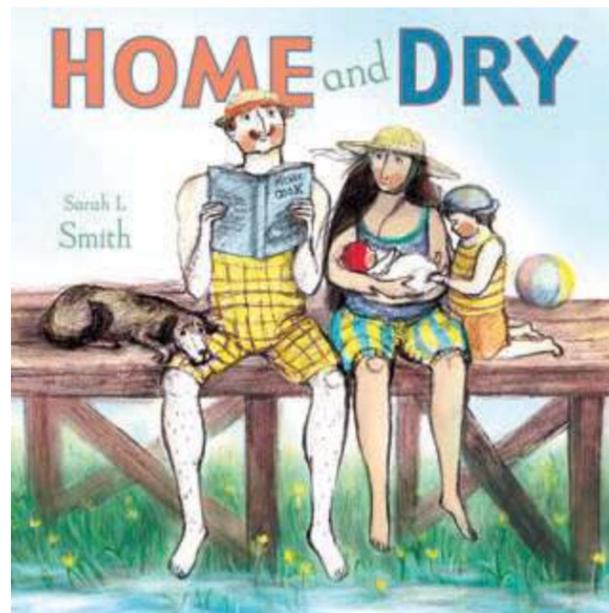

Written and illustrated by Sarah Smith

The Paddling family love nothing more than living on an island beneath a big black cloud, surrounded by water. As the seasons change and the water dries up, an unexpected visitor arrives, but the family is nowhere to be found. Before long, their visitor is in trouble and the rescue brings a big surprise!

Richly illustrated, this story explores the themes of home, friendship and family.

Features:

- This is a picture book in which the world of water and watery activities is perfectly realized. The charming, traditional illustrations reinforce the themes of family and togetherness.

Sarah L. Smith was born in London and spent her childhood in Rome making up stories and looking forward to big family lunches. She grew up admiring the detailed illustrations of Janet Ahlberg and Gyo Fujikawa and eventually attended the Cambridge School of Art, achieving a Masters degree in Children's Book Illustration. She now lives in Bristol, UK

That's NOT How You Do It!

Written and illustrated by Ariane Hofmann-Maniyar

Lucy knows how to do everything. She knows how to eat with a spoon and fork, play the xylophone, paint elephants - and lots more! All her friends ask her for help if they need to know the right way to do something. When Toshi arrives, Lucy thinks he can't do anything properly at all. He eats differently, plays strange music, and he definitely can't paint elephants. She can barely hide her frustration. And when she finally tries to teach Toshi the right way to do things, she learns a very important lesson herself.

A simple, funny tale about understanding, respecting and enjoying our differences.

Features:

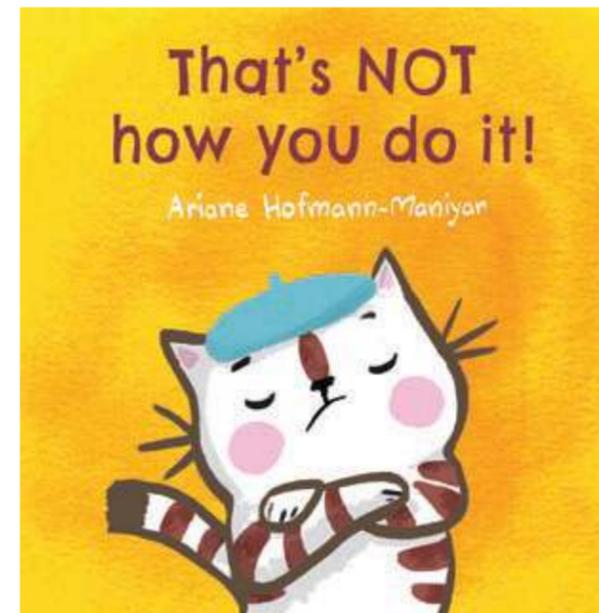

- 'That's NOT How You Do It!' celebrates our differences and teaches children the importance of keeping an open mind.
- Hardcover format is beautifully presented in a dust jacket and makes a great gift.

A child's early years are more important than any other. This is when children learn most about the world around them, and the language they need to survive and grow. For over forty years, Child's Play has put enormous thought and care into creating exactly the right sort of material for this all-important time.

Respected and loved by parents and educators alike, the Child's Play program offers learning, fun and happiness to children from the very earliest age. Presenting a wide and diverse range of formats and experiences, that will enrich and empower every child's life.

Child's Play has a history of creating innovative and award-winning books for children that promote learning through play. Vibrant illustrations positively portray children of all cultures, nationalities, gender and abilities, helping children to develop an understanding of our diverse society. Non-stereotypical traditions and values are promoted as a matter of course.
