Wings

Birds, bees, biplanes, and other things with wings
by Tracey Turner, illustrated by Fatti Burke

Wings takes readers on a fact-packed flight over a fascinating subject. Written by Tracey Turner, it offers a bird's-eye view of the first airplanes, the fastest jet planes, beetles, birds, winged horses, flying dragons - even winged unicorns. There's fun, easy-to-read information on wings of all kinds, including plenty of STEM material, presented in a mixture of text and speech bubbles that's perfect for readers aged 7 plus.

With Fatti Burke's stylish and colorful illustrations, Wings is a wonderful journey of discovery.

Author Bio

Tracey Turner has written more than 70 books, most of them for children, on subjects including inventions, the universe, famous writers, rude words, and deadly perils. Many have sold foreign rights all over the world, and some have become best sellers. She is also an editor, and commissioned and edited the Horrible Histories series for many years. She lives in Bath, UK, with Tom and their son, Toby.

Fatti Burke is an illustrator from County Waterford, Ireland, who currently lives in Amsterdam. She has been working as a freelance illustrator since she graduated from the National College of Art and Design in 2012 with a degree in visual communications. Her work revolves around the things she loves-- food, home, memes, animals, and tradition.

Wild City

Meet the animals who share our city spaces

by Ben Hoare, illustrated by Lucy Rose

Take an unforgettable tour around the world to meet the creatures that share our city spaces - from bears to bats, penguins to opossums - and learn about how they have adapted and thrived in this gorgeously illustrated gift book. Wild City travels the globe, exploring how animals have adapted to live alongside humans, in busy cities including New York, Rio de Janeiro, Berlin, Stockholm, Alexandria, Singapore and Mumbai. Discover hawks nesting by a world-famous shopping street, snakes slithering through city drains and sewers, and penguins waiting patiently to cross the road. Feature spreads take a closer look at the animals - how some wander in plain sight, whilst others bide their time to explore and the distances travelled by some animals to find a tasty meal.

Lyrical and factual text written by the award-winning Ben Hoare is perfectly complemented by Lucy Rose's stunning illustrations. The beautiful city scapes are full of detail with something new to discover with every look.

Author Bio

Ben Hoare is an award-winning journalist who has written and edited many natural-history books and magazines for DK, the BBC, London's Natural History Museum and many others. Since 2008 he has been Features Editor of BBC Wildlife Magazine. In 2015 Ben was awarded the Dilys Breese Medal for science communication by the British Trust for Ornithology (BTO) - he is one of only 15 people to hold the award.

Lucy Rose graduated from Falmouth University with a BA in Illustration. Her work is largely inspired by vintage prints and art deco posters, using limited and muted colour palettes.

Lucy has always loved the print processes and this is reflected in her work, she combines hand-print inspired layers with pen drawn figures and puts them together using digital techniques to create striking, graphic compositions.

The Curious Book of Lists - Human Body by Tracey Turner, illustrated by Isabel Munoz

Do you want to know about nine popular hair styles from history, how digestion works in six easy steps, and eight questions about the human body that have no answers?

Then look no further because The Curious Book of Lists - Human Body by Rachel Delahaye is absolutely bursting with eye-popping and informative lists about your body, guaranteed to keep you entertained and increase your general knowledge at the same time!

Discover your body's most curious bits and pieces, the most muscly gymnastics events, freaky human body museums . . . and the worst cures for the Black Death.

With quirky, colorful illustrations by Isabel Munoz, this is a great gift purchase but also a book to buy for yourself!

Author Bio

After studying linguistics, author Rachel Delahaye embarked on a career in journalism. She has worked in London, Sydney and Melbourne. She now lives in Bath, and while she has vowed never to move again, her imagination has refused to settle down. She's now writing children's fiction and non-fiction. Her hilarious Jim Reaper series is published by Piccadilly Press, and her Little Animal Rescue series is published by Stripes.

Painting was Isabel Munoz's favourite game as a child and, as she grew, became her favourite hobby. When the time came it was only natural for Isabel to go on to study Fine Arts at the University Complutense of Madrid, Spain. Isabel's shelves have always been filled with beautifully illustrated books, and she loves to spend many hours carefully studying their magic. Today, after a lot of hard work and lots of full sketchbooks, Isabel is proud to call Illustration her dream job.

Ultimate Gamer: Career Mode by Craig Steele

The Ultimate Gamer Guide: Career Mode is an illustrated/photographic comic sized book for children age 10+. It gives readers an insight into the gaming world beyond the screen and looks at careers in gaming and shines a light on the real pros" who make and play games professionally. The book communicates with the reader in a chatty way, whilst also providing information in short chunks, and it include bite-sized facts, hints, and tips. The book's main focus is on careers and wider gaming community, with sections on being a gamedeveloper, with the aim to teach children about what is involved. The sections include storyboarding, coding, art and design, acting/voice acting and testing. Highly visual pages will show children the different aspects that go into making a game and what a game developer does in an idealistic way, as opposed to step by step instructions.

Author Bio

Craig Steele is a specialist in Computing Science education. He is a Project Manager for CoderDojo Scotland, which runs free coding clubs for young people. He also runs hands-on workshops at big gaming events including Resonate and Insomnia, as well as sitting on the judging panel for BAFTA's Young Games Designers Awards.
