At the Zoo

William Makepeace Thackeray's brief, classic poem about children and animals At the Zoo is here rendered by Anne Yvonne Gilbert in a period style that manages to convey a timeless charm. Young listeners and readers will delight in copying the expressive emotions and actions shown in the illustrations, and the variety of zoo animals featured throughout will encourage talkative toddlers to identify each species with glee.

Born in India, William Makepeace Thackeray (1811–63) was sent to England at age four, upon his father's death. Along with Charles Dickens, Thackeray became one of the most well-known writers of his era, famous for works such as Vanity Fair. He contributed shorter pieces like the poem At the Zoo to popular British magazines Punch and Fraser.

Anne Yvonne Gilbert has designed and illustrated children's books, postage stamps, record sleeves, and posters, infusing her work with a photorealistic sensibility especially befitting the subject matter of the natural world. After many years spent in Canada, she and her husband make their home in northern England.

Chicken Wants a Nap New in Paperback!

With the sun up and the grass warm, a barnyard chicken is optimistic that it will be a comfortable day for a nap. However, forces keep conspiring against her—until it becomes a bad day for someone else.

Freelance editor and children's author Tracy Marchini also works as an agent as she continues to pursue her own dreams of publishing fiction. Chicken Wants a Nap was her picture book debut, and the hardcover was called "A surprising gem" in a starred Kirkus review. Her second picture book, Princesses Can Fix It! (Page Street Kids), was praised by Kirkus as "A fix for tired gender roles."

Award-winning Swiss illustrator Monique Felix, known for her expressive artwork and beloved Mouse Books series, fills each spread with texture, humor, and imaginative surprises.

Best Friends

"Outside of a dog, a book is man's best friend. Inside of a dog, it's too dark to read." This humorous quip, often popularly attributed to comedian Groucho Marx, probably did not originate with him, but the endearing illustrations that bring it to life in this brief picture book could have originated only with American artist Chris Sheban. The personalities and emotions expressed by Sheban's subjects, especially dogs, elevate the sly humor of both text and images, making the message resonate with bibliophiles of every age.

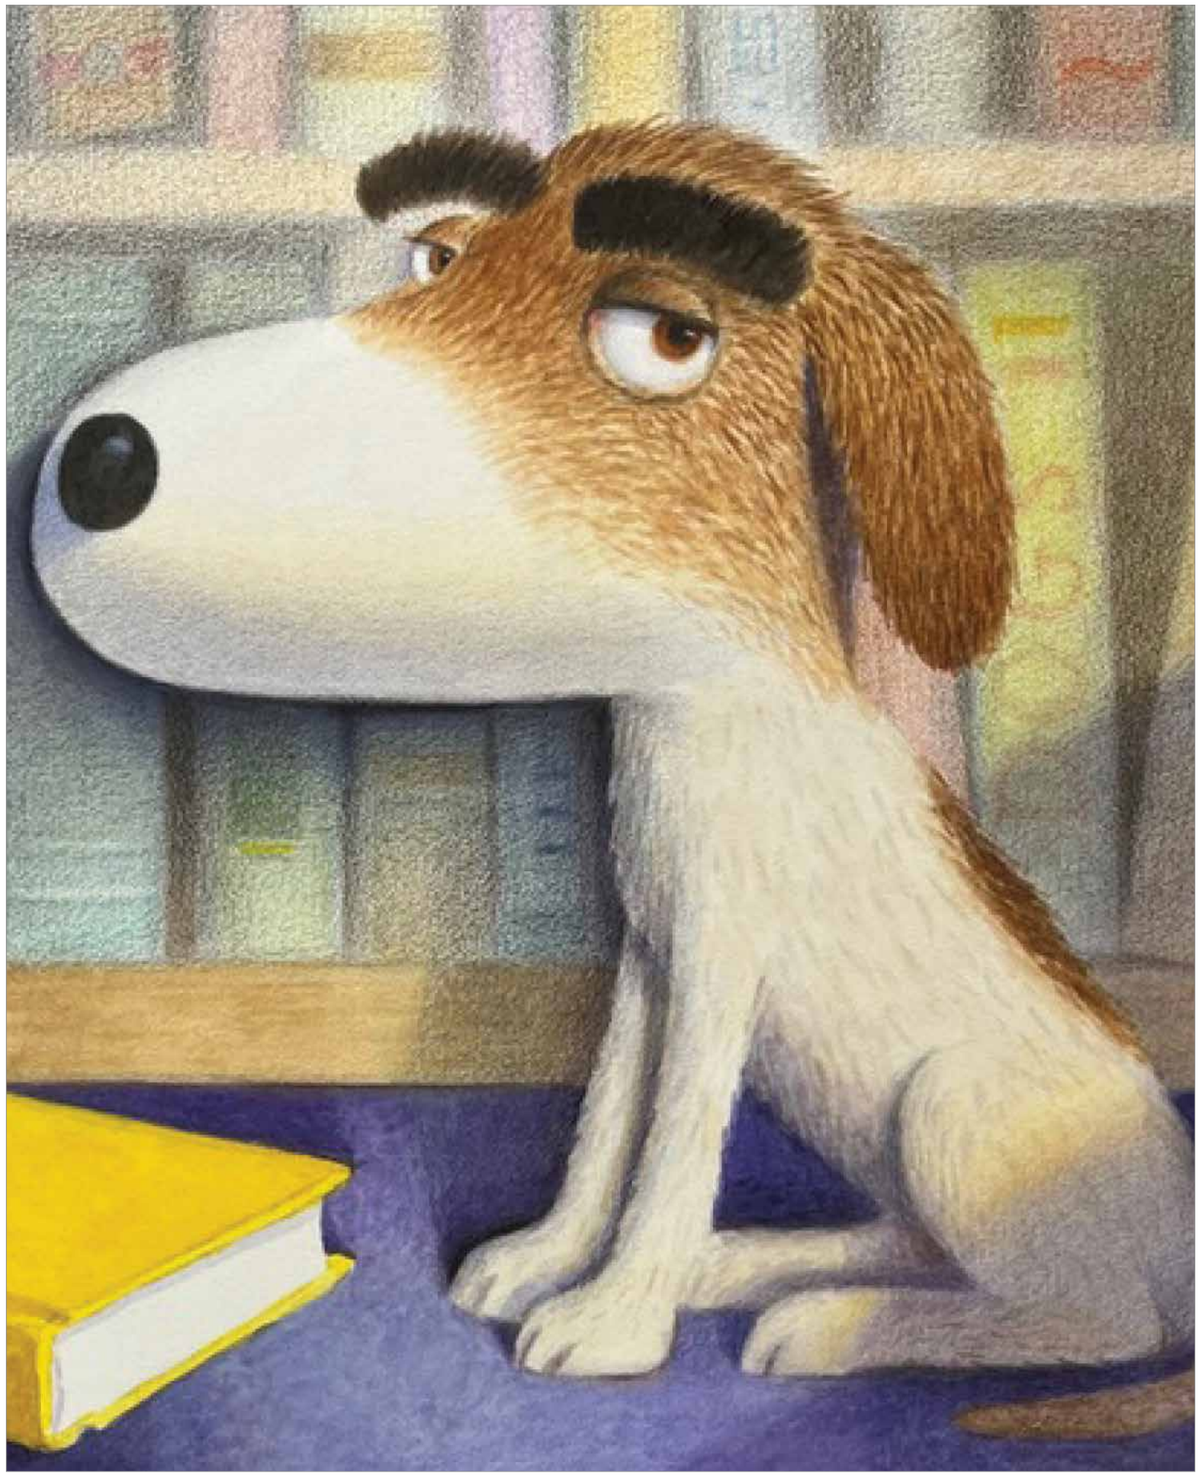

Chris Sheban has illustrated several children's books for Creative Editions, including Beyond the Stars, What to Do with a Box, I Met a Dinosaur, and A Night on the Range. His work has been honored with three gold and three silver medals from the Society of Illustrators. He lives near Chicago, Illinois.

The Man Who Owned People

This powerful picture book biography tells the true story of Robert Carter III, who in 1791 filed a "Deed of Gift" that ultimately freed more than 500 enslaved people. It was the largest act of emancipation in the United States before the Civil War. Author Jonah Winter and artist Gary Kelley illuminate this once forgotten corner of American history, contrasting Carter's bold decision with the choices of his slaveholding contemporaries, including George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and James Madison.

Jonah Winter is the award-winning author of more than 40 nonfiction picture books that promote environmental awareness and social and racial justice. Among them are Banned Book, Here Comes the Garbage Barge!, Ruth Bader Ginsburg: The Case of R.B.G. vs. Inequality, My Name is James Madison Hemings, Barack, and Lillian's Right to Vote, a Jane Addams Children's Book Award recipient and Kirkus Prize finalist.

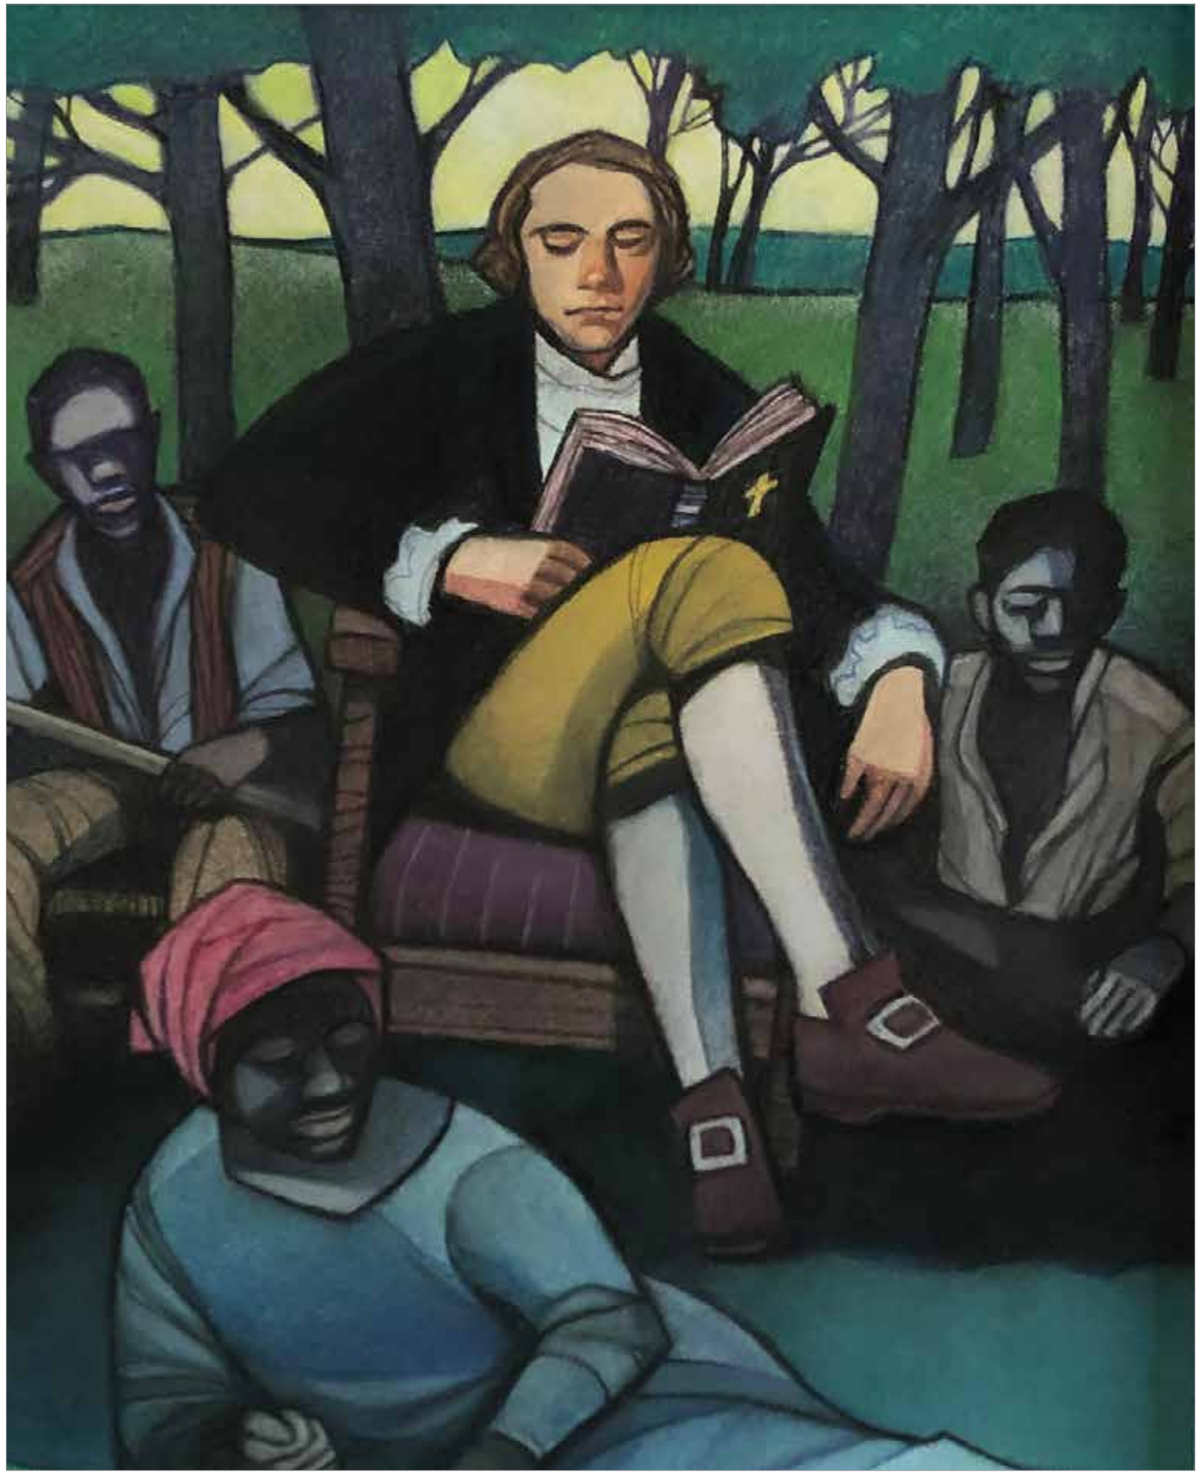

Gary Kelley (1945–2026) was an award-winning illustrator. His books include Next Year, The Navajo Code Talkers, Harlem Hellfighters, Virginia Was a Spy, A Song for the Cosmos, Aunt Sue's Stories, and Banned Book, all published by Creative Editions.

Wonder! The Words of Rachel Carson

Rachel Carson was a scientist and writer who never lost her childlike sense of wonder. Best known for Silent Spring, she spent her life urging readers to appreciate the natural world and to recognize our responsibility to protect it. This beautifully illustrated picture book draws on Carson's own words, compiled by Laura Manaresi, to illuminate her legacy as a pioneering environmentalist. Italian artist Giovanni Manna's serene, awe-filled artwork captures the curiosity and reverence that shaped Carson's life and writing.

Laura Manaresi puts her background as an art historian and skills as a writer to use in teaching at the Academy of Fine Arts in Florence and the Libera Accademia d'Arte Novalia in Alba. She voluntarily shares her passions for nature and historical characters with children in settings from pediatric oncology units to Himalayan schools.

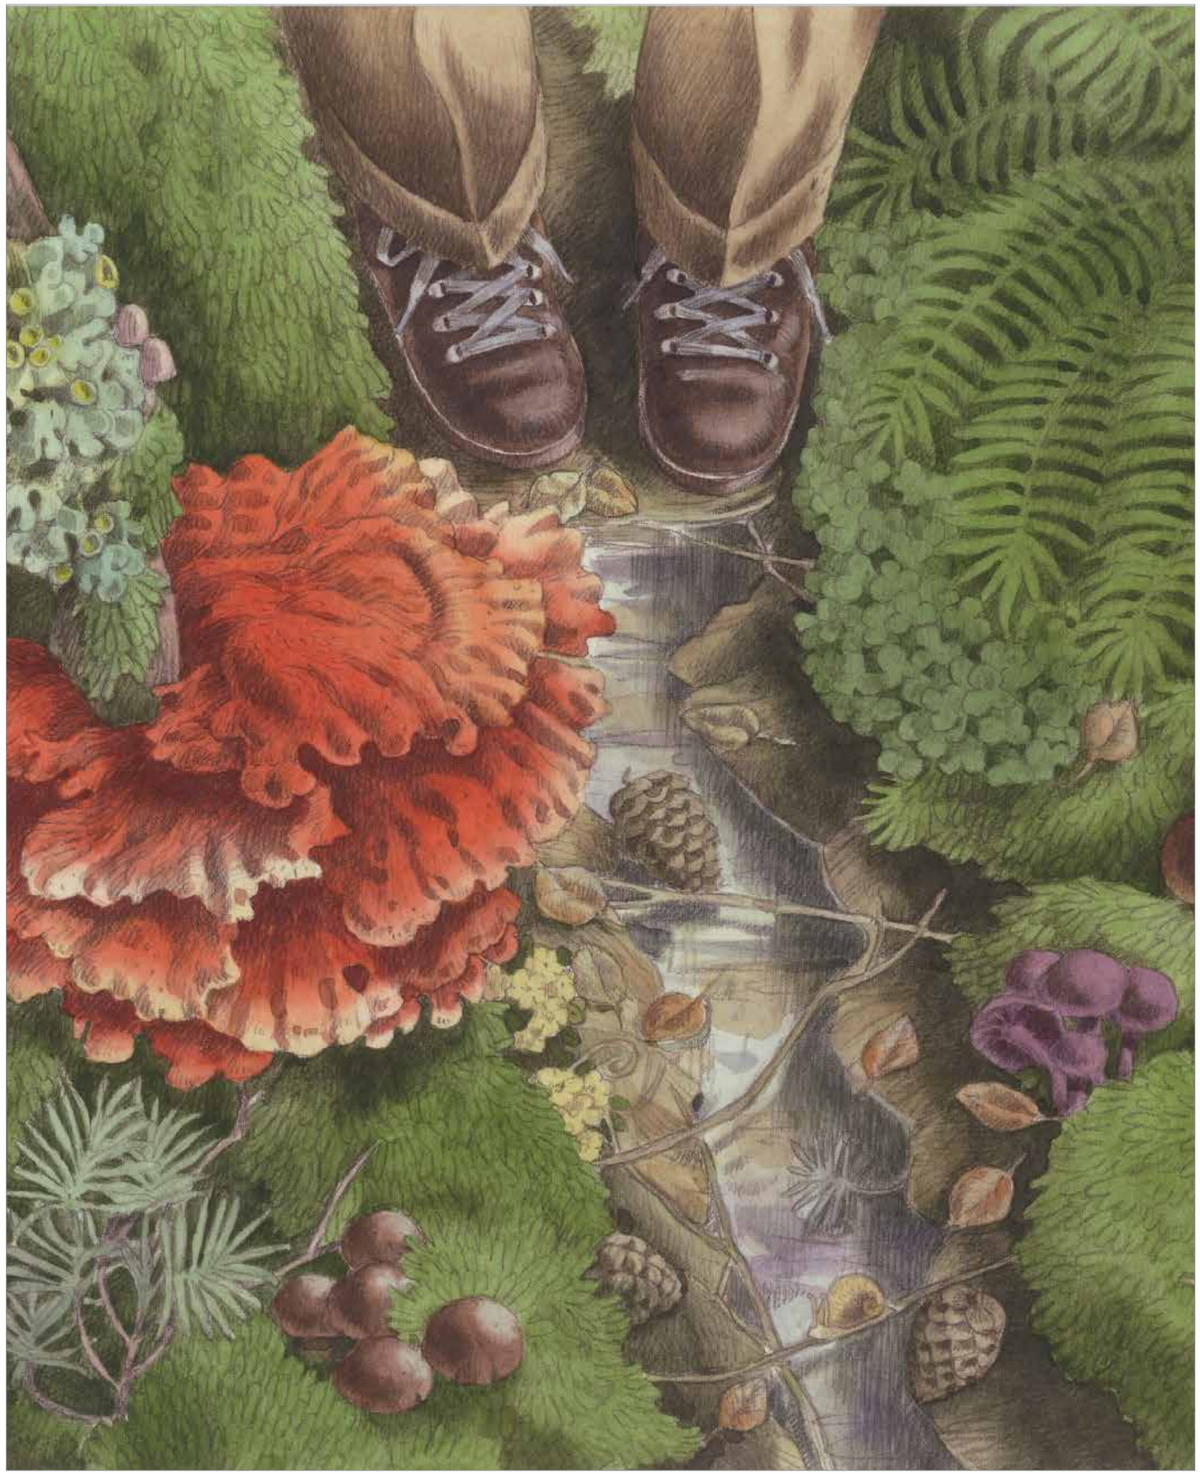

Giovanni Manna was born in Florence, Italy, and has illustrated more than 100 books for children since 1995. His work has been featured in exhibitions throughout Italy and internationally, from Bratislava to Britain. He teaches watercolor at the International School of Illustration in Sarmede and was awarded the Andersen Prize for best Italian illustrator in 2003.

Blue for My Birthday

As children learn the names of common colors, they also assign them characteristics or associate them with certain items. Blue may thus be the color of the sky but also the color of sadness. This illustrated nonfiction board book invites young listeners and early readers to expand their definitions of the color blue by naming and showing joyful interactions with familiar and relatable aspects of a child's birthday celebration.

Kate Riggs introduces the youngest readers to colors, shapes, and the natural world through gentle, evocative text. Her newest board book, Blue for My Birthday, joins a companion board book, A Sense of Red (Creative Editions, 2025). An editor and author of children's nonfiction, she lives in southern Minnesota with her family.

Based in Switzerland, artist Lucie Fiore is a graduate of the École Pivaut in Nantes and focuses on cultivating a colorful universe—at times humorous, at times poetic, and often inspired by nature—designed to spark the imagination of young and old alike.

Hide-and-seek is a favored and foundational game of childhood. A toddler who outgrows "peekaboo" soon discovers the joy of hiding (often in plain sight) and causing others to playfully search for them. Once this concept is grasped, children can apply it to countless forms—such as searching for hidden images in books. This illustrated nonfiction board book combines such playfulness with an introduction to camouflage in nature, featuring six examples of animals known for blending in with their surroundings and encouraging young readers and listeners to demonstrate their own ability to hide as well.

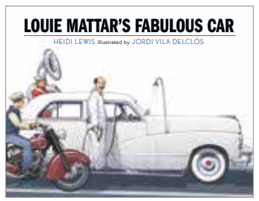

Fog

"Louie Mattar was crazy for cars. . . . If it had a motor and four wheels, Louie went wild." From a vehicle-obsessed child, Louie grew into a knowledgeable mechanic and craftsman who always had to be tinkering, solving problems that seemed impossible, and dreaming up innovations that no one else considered. Soon, he was modifying the family car to enable it to travel across the country without stopping—a feat he accomplished after five years of work, in 1952. The Fabulous Car still runs and is on view at the San Diego Automotive Museum, where it first inspired author Heidi Lewis to write about it.

Mud Angels

Author: Beth Kephart

Interest level: Age 9 and up
Trim size: 9" x 11"
$18.99 HC • Page count: 32
Color illustrations

When a devastating flood swept through Florence, Italy, in November 1966, a young artist named Roberto Innocenti was there to witness it—and the muddy destruction it wrought on the city's residents and precious works of art. He also experienced the miraculous response of helpers who arrived from around the world to assist the famed city in its recovery. These people became known as the Angeli del Fango, or "mud angels." Author Beth Kephart captures Roberto's memories in the voice of a fictionalized child, while the illustrator paints each vivid scene in his signature style.

"A stunning reminder that the power of goodness can eclipse the ravages of disaster."

When is a dot "not just a blot on a page"? In Jane Yolen's characteristically imaginative, free-verse explanation, the humble dot can take on many functions, from a spot of food to an animal's eye, from a marble to a moon. As Yolen extolls the dot's satisfying shape and innate neatness, illustrator Laëtitia Devernay brings it to life in this read-aloud picture book and sends it bouncing, rolling, and teetering off the edge of the page—only to reel it back to fulfill its best and truest purpose: marking The End.

Trim size: 11" x 8.5"
$18.99 HC • Page count: 32
Color illustrations

As commanding general of the Continental Army, George Washington was one of the most celebrated and recognizable figures of the American Revolution. So it was a shock when he voluntarily resigned his commission, giving up a powerful position instead of seeking to capitalize upon it. In Barbara Carroll Roberts's carefully researched account, young readers will encounter a nuanced portrayal of Washington and his contemporaries during a moment that would influence the course of a young nation and lead to the creation of a representative democracy of, by, and for the people.

"A thorough account ideal for young history buffs."
