Skulls

Portraits of the Dead and the Stories They Tell

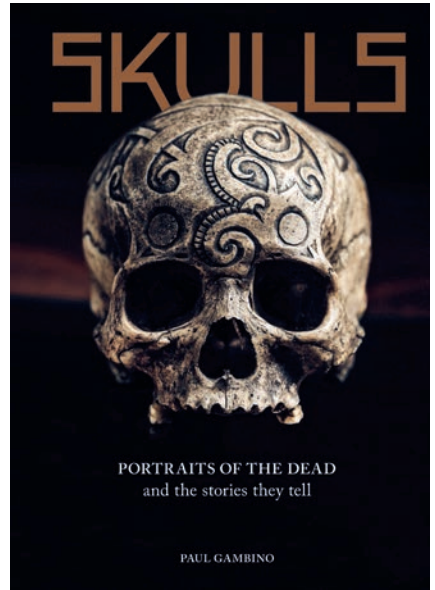

Paul Gambino

- Eerie and fascinating book featuring portraits of over 180 skulls and the stories behind them
- Taps into society's obsession with the crown jewel of the human skeleton
- Profiles of the skull collectors provide an insight into how the skulls were acquired and why they are so prized

It is said that the skull is the only human body part that is as powerful dead as it was when living. Skulls takes the reader on an eerie journey through history seen through the hollow eye sockets of this crown jewel of the human skeleton. The book is made up of a series of short illustrated stories laced with fascinating facts, historical and medical references, and compelling anecdotes. The testimonials of thirty-plus skull collectors reveal what is known of—or speculated about—the often gruesome history of the skulls, as well as how they were acquired, and what makes them so highly prized.

AUTHOR Paul Gambino has been an avid collector of the macabre for over 20 years, and owns an extensive collection of nineteenth-century memorial photographs. His two decades of collecting have gained him access to some of the world's most elite collectors of the macabre.

The Book of the Raven

Corvids in Art and Legend

Angus Hyland and Caroline Roberts

- Follow-up to the successful Book of the Bird, Book of the Dog and Book of the Cat
- Includes facts, fables, poems, and stories of crows, ravens, rooks, jays, and magpies
- Foreword by Chris Skaife, Ravenmaster at HM Tower of London

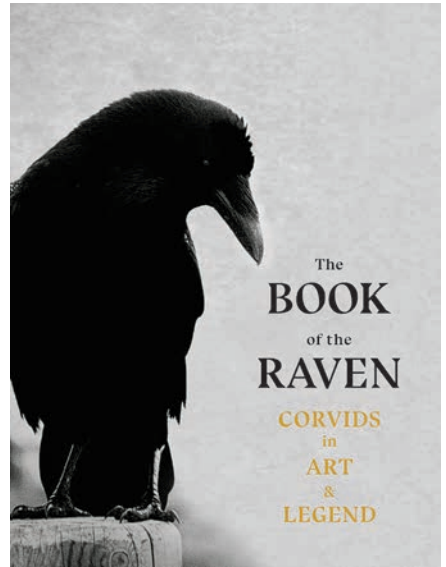

Corvids play an outsize role in the human imagination. We keep ravens in towers, emblazon rooks on banners, find crows in the constellations, and make sure to salute solitary magpies. We also see our own behavior mirrored in this diverse family of birds, who are tricksters and thieves as well as problem-solvers and gift-givers.

This beautifully designed book showcases the visual and literary life of the corvid, from Norse legends to Game of Thrones. It includes beautiful and darkly seductive photographs and paintings as well as texts and poems in which they play a starring role, and information about the traits that make them so intriguing to us.

AUTHOR Angus Hyland is a graduate of the Royal College of Art and a partner at Pentagram Design London. His previous books include Hand to Eye, The Picture Book, Symbol, and The Purple Book.

Caroline Roberts is a journalist and author who writes mainly about the graphic arts, and she was the founder of Grafik magazine.

The Bird

The Great Age of Avian Illustration

Philip Kennedy

- Bird-watching is more popular than ever and has recently gained a broader, more youthful audience
- Lavish and stunning, this is the first book that celebrates the incredible ornithological illustration from this age of discovery
- Appeals to the same audience as the highly successful Book of the Bird

The Bird explores the fascinating world of 18th- and 19th-century ornithological illustration. This period of scientific, artistic, and geographic discovery is celebrated through the lavish illustrations produced at that time. Within each chapter there will be an opportunity to learn more about the artists that helped to elevate the art form. From John James Audubon to Elizabeth Gould and Edward Lear we learn how technology, travel, and ambition shaped their work, and how their work transformed our understanding of the wonderful world of birds.

AUTHOR Philip Kennedy is a writer, illustrator, and educator. He currently teaches at Ireland's National College of Art and Design and is the founder of Illustration Chronicles, a website exploring the history of illustration.

- The story of one of the greatest pop sensations of our time
- The go-to concise biography of the world-wide superstar and cultural phenomenon
- Part of the "Lives of the Musicians" series: highly readable short biographies of the world's greatest musicians

Beyoncé is not simply a pop sensation. She is a cultural phenomenon empowering the oppressed and dispossessed, challenging white privilege and misogyny, and exploding gender politics. But who is Beyoncé Knowles-Carter and how did she become the strong confident woman whose albums sell in their millions and whose songs have become anthems against racial and sexual discrimination and oppression? This biography sets out to reveal exactly that.

AUTHOR Tshepo Mokoena is an Editorial Director of Vice, and also writes on music for The Guardian. She has been a fan of Beyoncé since she was a girl and heard her first Destiny's Child song.

- Part of the “Lives the Musicians” series: highly readable short biographies of the most popular musicians
- Prince was one of the titans of Pop from the 1980s until his death in 2016
- There is no other short, concise biography of Prince for adults.

His name was Prince, and he was funky. He was also inspiring, visionary, seductive, and contradictory. Especially contradictory. When he changed his name to an unpronounceable glyph, he merged symbols of the male and female to represent himself. When he recorded music—a daily torrent of creativity—he slipped with ease between male and female viewpoints. This book charts the rise of the 5ft 2-inch “Minneapolis genius” from “the next Stevie Wonder” to a unique artist whose towering legacy continues to shape pop culture.

Somyama Ngonyama / Hail the Dark Lioness, 2016

'Fine artists deal with finery, but I deal with painful material.'

Zanele Muholi

© 1972, South Africa

Zanele Muholi is dedicated to amplifying the voices of marginalized queer communities and acknowledging the suffering that has been wrought in the wake of South Africa's apartheid, identifying as a 'cultural activist' rather than an artist. They shun prescribed definitions of beauty and social significance supported by the colonial gaze, and focus on engaging with effective community-led activism. Muholi never refers to 'subjects' but rather 'participants' who take on a collaborative role in extensive projects such as Facets and Phases (2008-), which documents the lives of black lesbian and transgender individuals.

The more recent series 'Somyama Ngonyama: Hail the Dark Lioness' (2014-17) focuses on the possibilities of the activist's own image as a black, non-binary person, informed by the prejudices experienced during extensive international travel. The itinerant image-maker took one photo every day for a year, utilizing such ubiquitous materials as paper, rubber tubes and sponges to build costumes that speak to various forms of South African heritage and often painful acts of historical racism. By constructing such commanding images without any form of elaborate set-up, props or process, Muholi speaks to power, resilience and a unique form of un-gilded magnificence.

The Women Who Changed Art Forever

Feminist Art—The Graphic Novel

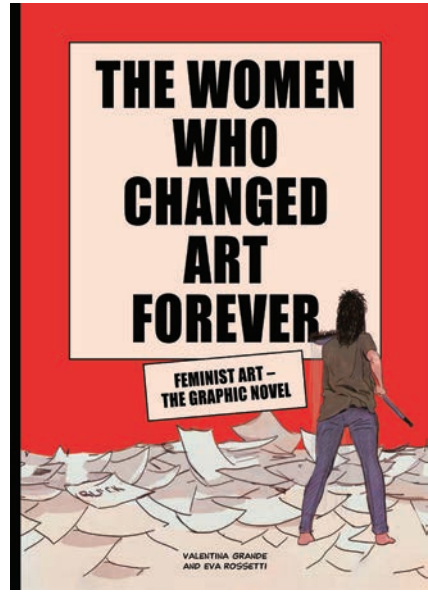

Valentina Grande and Eva Rossetti

- A cool, visually led and accessible primer on the four pillars of feminist art
- Told from the viewpoint of four feminist pioneers—Judy Chicago, Faith Ringgold, Ana Mendieta, and the Guerrilla Girls
- The full story of how a powerful wave of women artists changed art forever

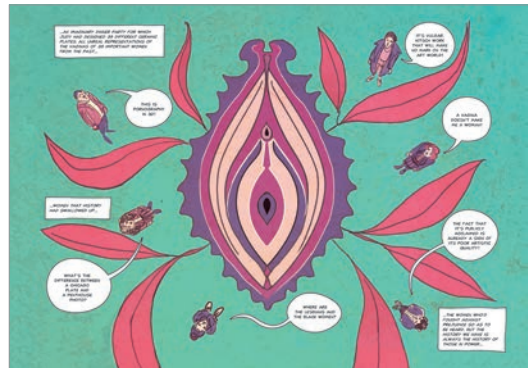

Told in colorful graphic novel form, this is the story of four pioneers of feminist art: Judy Chicago, Faith Ringgold, Ana Mendieta, and the Guerrilla Girls. Each made their mark in their own powerful way. Judy Chicago made us reassess the female body, Faith Ringgold taught us that feminism is for everyone, Ana Mendieta was a martyr to violence against women, while the Guerrilla Girls continue to take the fight to the male-dominated museum.

AUTHOR Valentina Grande has previously written graphic novels on the lives of J.D. Salinger and Raymond Carver.

Eva Rossetti is an illustrator and author, her graphic novel on the life of J.D. Salinger was published in 2017.

Wofflin and formal analysis

In Wofflin and Formal Analysis, you'll learn how to analyze a work of art by looking at its formal qualities—its lines, colors, shapes, and composition. This book is a guide to the language of art, and it will help you understand the formal qualities of a work of art. It will also help you understand the formal qualities of a work of art.

ANALYZING COMPOSITION
Formal analysis is a general, objective, and systematic method of analyzing a work of art. It is a method of analyzing a work of art that is based on the formal qualities of the work of art. It is a method of analyzing a work of art that is based on the formal qualities of the work of art.

are discussed at length. You could apply this sheet as the focus of the phenotype if you have one, or gather together all your summaries in your notebook. It will not take long to do this after you finish each reading, and it will save you a lot of time when studying for exams. If it would help you, create a template in word processing program at the beginning of the term and print out the number you will need, or use a copy of the template as a file for saving notes and reviewing them on your computer.

Preparing for slide identifications and short-answer questions
Remembering important information about important works of art has traditionally been an important part of learning in art history. This process involves the basic material of art history and gives a set of visual works in your memory that can be drawn on as you study of the discipline continues. Students of art history need to be able to recall images visually, even memory, to understand other works of art as they are exposed to them. For example, if your instructor discusses how Paul Gauguin (1848–1903) introduced some of his compositions as tropical paintings, you will need to remember what Gauguin's paintings look like in order to understand this observation. As with the analytical and interpretive abilities you acquire through the study of art, a well-studied visual memory will enrich your life and enhance your appreciation of art to a variety of settings. Here are five that are not because of an historian, you will probably visit an museum or interpret cultural sites during your travels.

Until relatively recently, a standard part of examinations for introductory art history students is a memory course, a series of slide identifications, usually at the very beginning of the course. Of course, your professors will find by preparing you of art digital images rather than types photographic slides, but in many places this word "slide" is still in use if the student illustrations are no longer there. In some colleges, students often indicated memory exercises in art history "slides," whether electronically or analogously. Today, most all introductory courses in art history are online courses, and, even when they are, increasingly professors are not using slide identification exercises within their courses. So, since in some places they are still used, we wanted to discuss them here for you in case your professor continues the traditional practice.

Students often find slide identifications "slide-by" for about 10 to 15 minutes. This is a very short time to learn a lot of information and difficult part of art history exams. A slide identification usually consists of a single image, shown for a minute or two. During this time, students are asked to identify the work in the slide by writing the artist's name, the subject or title, the date, the location where it was made and/or where it is in the location in a small notebook. Some professors also want to know the medium, and its period or culture. A sample slide identification for Frida's Two Fridas.

In addition to the basic identification, some professors may ask about a specific issue or interpretation in relation to the piece, or ask you to compare practices in two significant, giving you additional time to do this. The slide of figure 4 will be accompanied by this question:

Why do these two figures appear different?

Store Study: Louis Vuitton

Being Visual Image Director for the most recognized luxury brand in the world must be stressful, but Tony Morgan takes it all in his stride and enjoys the challenge of designing and creating window displays across the world. Originally from Scotland, Morgan has worked in Paris, New York and now London for brands including Selfridges, Topshop, Liberty and Agnès. As the creative force behind the inspirational window display for the French brand Louis Vuitton, the world has looked to New Bond Street, London, and La Place Vendôme in Paris for inspiration. The art and design are responsible for the innovative window displays that distinguish the brand's boutiques.

How do you communicate your creative concepts to visual merchandisers working in different countries?

We have visual merchandising teams all over the world, and we provide detailed creative guidelines and technical briefings. We also put a lot of energy into communication – there are global seminars that we all attend each year, and we do in-country briefings.

Your windows often differ between countries and cities. Why is that?

Windows can occasionally be tailored specifically to a location or event. We also work a great deal with artists, and these collaborations can often be specific to a country. Cultural differences play for the most obvious reasons. Cultural differences in art, fashion, music, collaborations with artists (Beyoncé and Madonna featured throughout the new store in Miami).

How do you maintain the high standards set by Louis Vuitton across the globe?

All the creative decisions are made in Paris, so this ensures consistency and standardised direction for the brand. We communicate to all our teams around the globe on a regular basis, which allows the creative work to be executed correctly and accurately.

Where do you get your creative energy?

Trend, my team, friends and family and my collection of new objects always help the creative process. I draw a lot of ideas in my sleep.

Where do you get your creative energy?

Selfridges, my team, friends and family and my collection of new objects always help the creative process. I draw a lot of ideas in my sleep.

You have collaborated with artists, stylists and influential fashionistas. How important is it to enter the lives of others?

It's really important to work with other creative talents. The great collaborations and open a different approach to the world. My career is to have a great time working with the brilliant people.

You started your career at Selfridges, London, and have worked in New York and Paris. What's next?

The happy London. It's full of inspiration and new ideas. Selfridges in London is also busy and funny, and inspiring too.

Personality Profile

Dreamers are highly imaginative and creative, they are characterised by their rich inner world. They love the notion of storytelling - whether it be regaling their friends with their own stories or intently listening to others'. In fact, you can quickly spot a Dreamer at a party retelling their most recent travel story or absorbed in someone else's!

Dreamers are drawn to artistic and creative pursuits that energise and evoke strong emotions in them. You can tell a Dreamer by the way they're completely engrossed in a piece of music, a podcast or an art exhibition. Fun fact: Dreamers are more likely to experience a "frisson" - the phenomenon of chills or goosebumps that come listening to a piece of music for an aesthetic experience). However, you won't find a Dreamer listening to the same genre of music on Spotify every day.

Dreamers are highly empathetic people, and value emotional expression. They typically experience emotional events and situations, such as a break-up, or a political event more strongly than others. Dreamers' comfort with expressing their emotions manifests in how they like to connect with others on a deep and meaningful level. When it comes to values, Dreamers are often non-conformists, rejecting convention and tradition in the favour of the new and liberal.

In terms of personality, Dreamers score high on Openness to Experience which is characterised by intellectual curiosity and creativity, a tendency towards trying new things, emotional awareness and appreciation of art.

In relationships, Dreamers fall head over heels, quickly and deeply. Whether it be trying new hobbies or travelling to exciting places, Dreamers want to spend lots of quality time discovering a partner. As Dreamers are champions of exhibiting and communicating emotions, you won't shy away from letting your guard down or sharing your feelings early on in your relationship. In addition, Dreamers often draw on their own intuition and self-reflection to make sense of a partner with a tendency to be influenced by emotions rather than rational thought.

At work, Dreamers have a strong intellectual curiosity - they love abstract ideas and exploring academic knowledge. Dreamers prefer to rely on their own intuition and creativity than the tried and tested approach to a problem or task.

Rituals and Habits

MAKE EVERY DAY DIFFERENT

Unlike other personality types, you'd rather mix it up and not play it safe. In fact, as a Dreamer, you welcome surprise and variety in your life. It makes you feel more alive. You love it when a friend will spontaneously make plans with you on a Wednesday afternoon for that evening, or when you can gather a group of people at the last minute.

BE SPONTANEOUS

As a Dreamer, you like to lead a spontaneous existence. You prefer unstructured time in your day where you can choose what you do, whether it be reading a book or listening to a podcast, or going for a run.

WAKE UP AT A DIFFERENT TIME EVERY DAY

Although you may have certain self-care rituals that you engage in from time to time, the idea of the same routine every day scares you, as does the idea of waking up and sleeping at the same time every day!

JOURNAL BEFORE BED

To calm a busy mind, try journaling before bed. Don't worry about structuring your thoughts - the only important thing is to keep writing. If you've never journalled before, start with 10 minutes each night and increase the time depending on how you feel.

AVOID A UNIFORM

You may have some wardrobe staples, but try and avoid wearing the same thing every day. If you don't normally wear colour - try it! A pop of yellow or red on a Monday morning may be just the thing you need.

UNWIND YOUR MIND

For every personality type, it's important to find a pursuit that calms your mind. As a Dreamer, you don't like to do the same thing, so find a few habits that reduce your stress levels. It could be a podcast, meditation, meeting a

Compatibility

WHO WOULD YOU FOLLOW INTO BATTLE?

Dreamers attach huge importance to their friends and family, and you see eye-to-eye with most people surrounding you. You have an eclectic group of friends, and you particularly value your close one-on-one relationships. You enjoy deep and meaningful chats, and always make sure you are fully present and listening intently. You would do anything for those close to you.

WHO WOULD YOU CLASH WITH?

Dreamers go with the flow. You actively seek out things outside of the ordinary and often find yourself drawn towards things which are a bit unusual. As a result, you are at odds with traditionalists who prefer the conventional over new, and often find it draining to try out new things as it means moving away from their comfort zone. As a Dreamer, you are likely to find it difficult to work with traditionalists in the same work project. You might want to avoid being picked for the same team/assignment, or if you find yourself on the same team, try to schedule a conversation early on to discuss your different working styles.

WHO WOULD YOU DEBATE WITH AT A PARTY?

As Dreamers like to be guided by their own emotions, you will often find it frustrating when confronted with pure rationality, logic and pragmatism when debating a moral issue. Although Dreamers understand the value of practicalities in day to day life, they believe that it is emotion and feeling that should be considered an important factor.

WHO DO YOU HAVE A SECRET CRUSH ON?

As Dreamers are high in openness to experience, they are less likely to have a specific romantic "type" and be open to a range of different people. Dreamers will crush on those with whom they feel a more abstract connection and potential for meaningful conversation, whether it be a stranger at a party, or a friendship that could turn into something more.

text by Debora Robertson

- A new product in our best-selling line of gifts for dog lovers, including Dog Bingo and Do You Look Like Your Dog?
- Learn to recognize your favorite breeds with these simple picture quiz cards: is that a Labrador or a Golden Retriever? A Yorkshire Terrier or a Corgie?
- Fun and easy to play with all the family—players will enjoy guessing the dog breeds, then turning over the card to reveal extra trivia questions

Love dogs but wish you knew more about them? Brush up on your canine companions using these quiz cards and you'll be leading the pack in no time. Which is taller, a Great Dane or an Irish Wolfhound? Where do Border Terriers come from? Easy to play with all the family, be the first to guess the dog breed from its picture, then turn the card over to discover the answer and reveal extra trivia questions. The perfect treat for dog lovers and fans of Dog Bingo.

AUTHOR Polly Horner is an artist living in Rye, East Sussex, UK. She is the illustrator of Dogs: Best in Show, Dog Bingo, and Dog Postcards (Laurence King).
Debora Robertson is a writer specializing in all matters domestic: from food, homes, and gardens to modern manners, dogs, and decluttering.

Ways of Looking at Art

Illustrated by George Wylesol, text by Martin Jackson

- Experience art with fresh perspectives
- 50 prompts to change the way you see everything, from fine art to street art
- Portable format means you can take them on the go

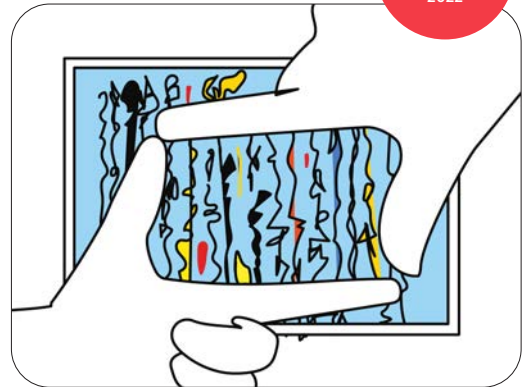

Reawaken a sense of wonder and beauty with these illustrated cards. Use these 50 prompts for 50 different ways of looking at anything from graffiti to sculpture, painting to tapestry. There is no right way to experience art: these cards will help you discover a newfound appreciation for whatever artworks come your way.

AUTHOR George Wylesol is an illustrator, designer, writer, and educator from Philadelphia. He currently lives in Baltimore and teaches illustration at Towson University and MICA.

Martin Jackson teaches drawing and experimental animation at Kingston University and is a tutor for the Royal Drawing School's Young Artist program.

Jane Austen Playing Cards

Rediscover 5 Regency Card Games

Illustrated by Barry Falls, text by John Mullan

- A set of playing cards featuring illustrations of Austen's most famous characters, with rules to five Regency card games and their mentions in Austen's novels included in the booklet
- Features standard playing card suits, numbers, and face cards: can be used in exactly the same way as normal playing cards
- Hearts = Heroines & Heroes, clubs = Rogues & Mischief-makers, diamonds = Friends & Relations and spades = Fools & Bores

Play cards with Mr Darcy and Elizabeth Bennet and King and Queen of Hearts, Henry Crawford as Ace Rogue, and many more of Jane Austen's most memorable characters. Suits are themed on character traits, with hearts for the Heroines & Heroes and spades for the Fools & Bores. Add some 19th-century drama to your favorite card games or learn to play the ones featured in Austen's stories with the help of the accompanying booklet.

AUTHOR Barry Falls is an illustrator based in Belfast. He has worked for The New York Times, The Guardian, American Airlines, Unicef, and Random House.
Professor John Mullan is Lord Northcliffe Chair of Modern English Literature and head of the English department at UCL.

Aussie Animal Match

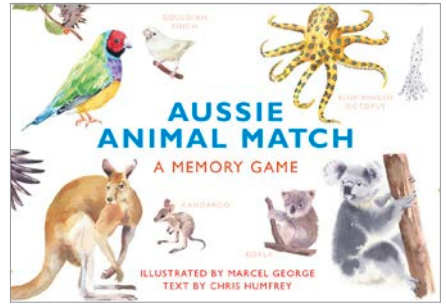

A Memory Game

Illustrated by Marcel George, text by Chris Humfrey

- Follow-up to the best-selling Match a Pair of Birds and other animal memory games
- Reunite the animals with their babies, while learning about your favorite Australian creatures
- This simple matching game is beautiful, easy to play with all the family, and educational

These adorable Australian animals are missing their mums and dads! Remember where they're hiding and reunite them to win this fun family matching game.

Once you've put together all the pairs, learn about all the fascinating creatures you've collected in the accompanying booklet written by Chris Humfrey from Wild Action zoo, Melbourne.

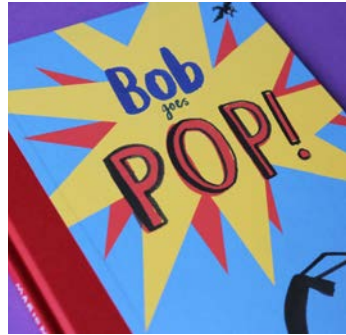

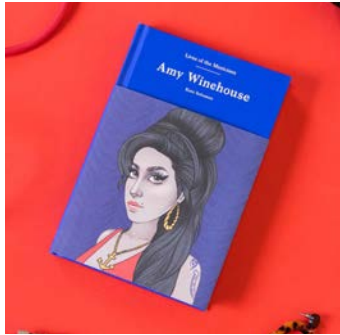

AUTHOR Marcel George is a London-based illustrator who specializes in creating hand-painted contemporary watercolor illustrations.

Chris Humfrey is a zoologist and founder of Wild Action zoo. With the educational program "The Zoo Comes to You" he teaches over 250,000 children a year about Australia's biodiversity.
